

Background, visit work and results

Ines Alvarez Vadillo is a PhD student that is currently finishing a 10-months visit in our institution. In this presentation she will talk about her background and previous experience, as well as introducing basic concepts of the area of knowledge she works at: dependability. Moreover, she will talk about the work carried out in our faculty for these last 10 months and the results obtained. Finally, she will provide an overview of the next steps.